Forecast For East Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 17 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Becoming increasingly cloudy with the odd spot of rain.

This Evening and Tonight:
Mostly dry, with occasional clear spells. However, cloud will increase later in the night, bringing a few outbreaks of rain. Brisk northerly winds easing through the evening. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Thursday:
Largely cloudy, with the odd spot of rain across eastern parts, although some brighter spells further west. Cloud and wind increasing later in the day, with patchy rain spreading westwards. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Cloudy Friday with some patchy rain and drizzle early on. Drier Saturday and Sunday with occasional clear spells, but chilly, with patchy frost and fog Saturday morning.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.